

This code compiles.

No adding of functions. Just add implementations.

The .h files cannot be modified.

Make sure you complete all the comment headers.

The first thing I would work on is the implementation for <

(worry about what if special cases later)

Once that is done you will be able to load the file and print it to the screen.

Then complete the other implementations for the other functions.